Turning discussions on decolonisation into pedagogic practice in university museums and collections

July, 5th 2022 – 13.30 to 16.20

The aim is to develop a toolkit for acting on decolonisation discussions in our engagements with students and to create a forum where issues faced in applying decolonisation to a university museum/collection context can be discussed openly, respectfully and without judgment (particularly for those with no background in this area).
